

Zoo Jobs: Communicator Activity

A communicator needs to be skilled at explaining their topic to other people in a way that's interesting and understandable. Design a poster or record a video about an animal.

You could record yourself delivering an animal talk, create a short film for YouTube or create a poster about conservation and how people can help.

This is a great activity for trying out some digital skills on the computer.

Think about the following:

What's the conservation problem?

Why should people care?

What can people do to help?

Eye-catching headline or slogan

How will you present it?

What props, images or other visuals might you need?
